MISS ESSIE V. HALLOWELL

Bookplate presented by Miss Nellie Hallowell.

IN TRIBUTE TO A FINE EDUCATOR

Pendleton High School lost a fine Latin teacher and librarian April 28, 1957, when Miss Essie V. Hallowell passed away after a short illness. She left a community whose respect and affection she had earned by 29 years of service. In addition to being a stern, just, Latin teacher and an exacting librarian, Miss Hallowell had many outside interests. She sponsored the Camera Club, the Stamp Club, and Kamera Kids; she helped lead the Pendleton Dog Obedience School, and was on the Public Library Board.

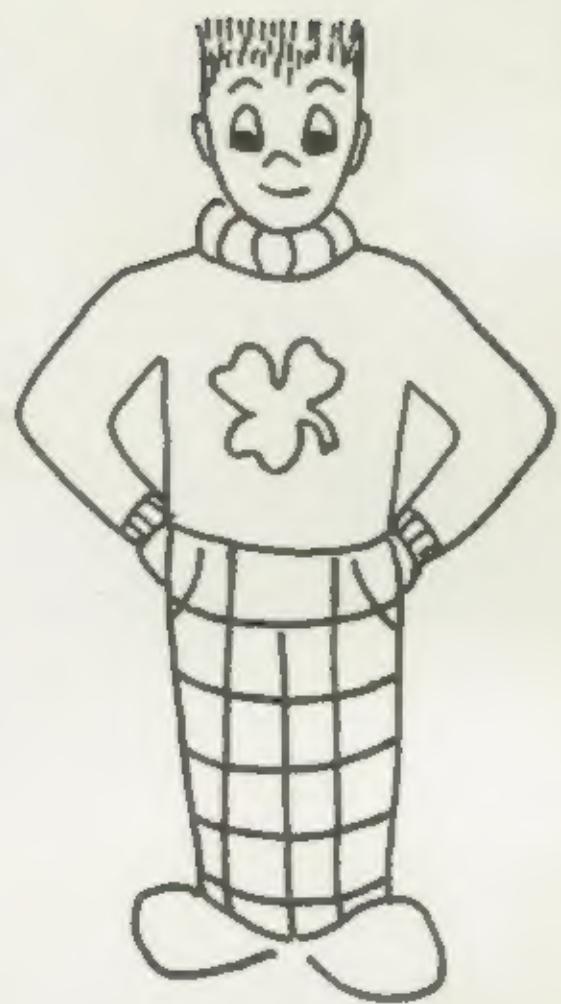

A memorial fund, to which individuals and organizations contributed, was established soon after Miss Hallowell's death, with Mr. Jacobs, Miss Borden, and Mrs. Eley as trustees. From this fund the committee purchased a number of books and filmstrips which were placed in the school library as a memorial. The hand-printed bookplates used were presented by Miss Nellie Hallowell.

Poor Irishman . . . our mascot must get tired of standing in the gym all the time and seeing nothing but a gym floor, boys rushing back and forth, and cheerleaders wildly flinging their arms. Our papier-mache Irishman must have feelings; because he lives just as his friends, the people at P.H.S., live. He is our school spirit, dressed in green and gold, and topped with a derby hat. We think it's time for him to see the rest of his school; the classes and convos, the fun and fads, the students and teachers, and all other phases of life at Pendleton High School, his home.

Crew neck sweaters made bulges stylish.

SPUTNIKS AND "FADNIKS"

While scientists racked their brains making moons and rockets that sometimes collapsed on the launching pads, Irishmen went sky high with their supersonic fads. These often were quite sensible; when Asiatic flu struck, many girls found that their bucket handbags were just the thing in which to carry Bufferin bottles and pastel Kleenex. The American Bandstand brought the Stroll to Pendleton High, and fairy flats were the natural complement.

Steady rings were out of this world with mink and pearl trim.

And even these were too small.

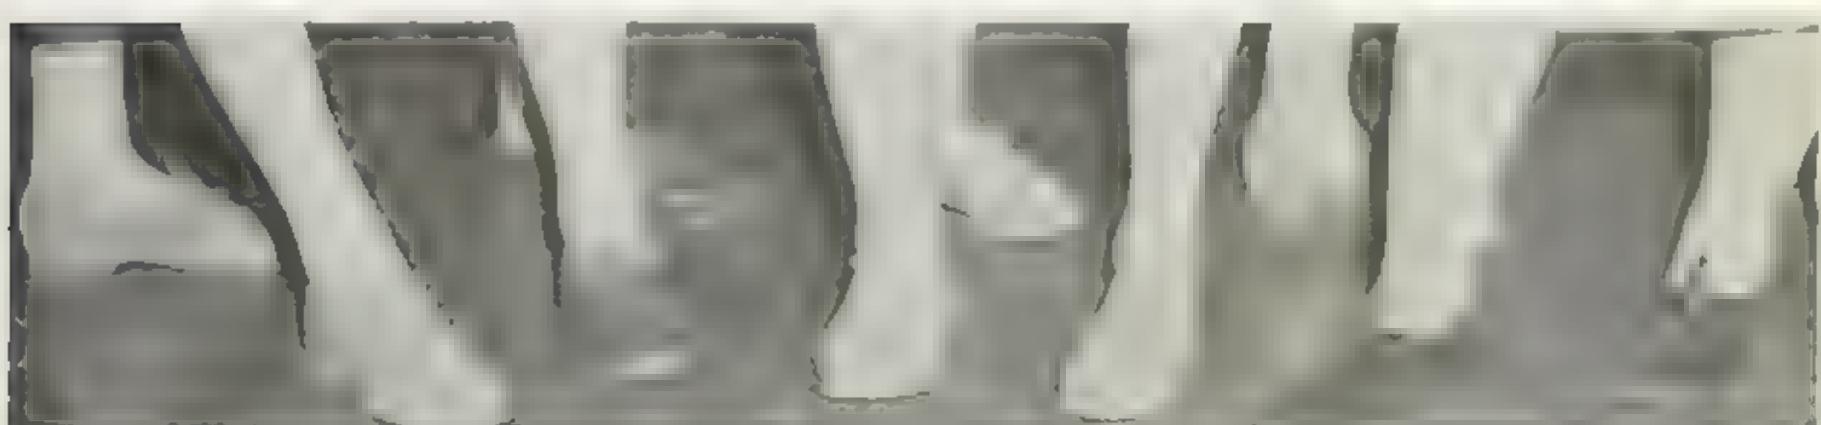

Long hair with back interest was the vogue.

WENT OUT OF THIS WORLD

With below-zero weather in February, Bermuda socks and earmuffs came into their own, and crew neck sweaters and blazers were perfect for chilly study halls. Then spring came, and the bold ventured forth in sack dresses and chemises. As commencement approached, white caps and gowns, accented with scarlet, became high fashion.

Senior cords were in a class by themselves.

Fairy flats for twinkle toes.

Saddle oxfords were traditional.

Wonder how they keep them white?

CLUBS PROVIDE ESCAPE FROM THE DAILY ROUTINE

There are some things that a student just can't learn from a book, such as good leadership, cooperation, and citizenship. The clubs and organizations of P.H.S. enable the student not only to develop socially but also to give service to the community.

"Now, I worry not only about Johnny's ability to read," sighed a confused young mother, "but also about his ability to understand nuclear physics."

At a time when some schools are excited about their crying need for science courses, Pendleton High quietly goes on delivering sciences and math to students who want them and vocational courses to those who want a more practical education.

Both the practical and the theoretical education radicals are unhappy at this state of affairs, but a compromise system seems to work well.

"Education is a selective sort of thing," Mr. Hammerling says. "We try to keep the best of the old ideas and also incorporate the good new methods. This way, we feel that we can take care of the needs of most students over the longest period of time."

There are many improvements to be made, of course . . . no school is perfect . . . but, in the light of today's race for scientific supremacy, Pendleton High School stands as one of the better schools in Indiana.

Students find the school library a pleasant place in which to do research . . . or to browse.

WITH STUDENTS AND FACULTY

As they stumbled over Ecretz and Elletz to get to Ersatz, many students grumbled before the opening convocation when alphabetical auditorium seats became a reality. Then the curtains opened and Howard Leahy "emceed" the seniors' hilarious yearbook promotion. "Well, if all the convos are like that, I guess I can stand sitting next to Ecretz and Ersatz," someone muttered.

WE BUILT A STAIRWAY TO THE STARS

The "Stairway to the Stars," of the Junior Prom, led to a heavenly evening of music and dancing. The boys in their white sport coats and pink carnations, and the girls in their fluffy formals presented a very beautiful and colorful show.

The Prom was held in the Ball State Student Center at Muncie. A campus band, the Phi Mu Crew, played for the dancing and entertained with special novelty numbers.

James Hamilton, Junior Class president, conducted the crowning ceremony for the Prom Court. Phyllis Campfield was crowned Queen and Walter Moore, King. Camille Hamilton reigned as Princess, and Dwayne Rhule as Prince.

Each year, students who are outstanding in their participation in athletics and other activities at P.H.S. receive awards for their contribution to their school. To win an athletic jacket, a boy must devote many hours and seasons in athletic activities. Varsity athletes have to sacrifice in order to stay in condition, but the satisfaction in serving one's school is ample reward for any disadvantage.

"VICTORY, VICTORY. THAT'S OUR CRY!"

Coach Dimich and his varsity surprised the Irish basketball fans with the first victorious season in approximately a decade. They compiled a season mark of 11 wins and 8 losses and also walked off with a share in the White River Conference basketball crown.

During sectional competition, the Irish lost a heartbreaking 58-57 game to Anderson's Indiana and tallied a spectacular 620 shooting percentage from the field. By combining a semi-stall, a few fast breaks, and their fightin' spirit, the Irish had the Indians quite confused during most of the game.

"Guard cuts hard for the basket, forward spots off the guard, and the center can pass to either man," Coach Dimich explains to Robinson and the boys

The Irish ended this year's baseball season with a record of 4 and 4. Tom France led the batting average with a .440 percentage. Jim Martin, the only senior, followed with a .330 average. Bob Hulse, leading pitcher for the Irish, won 2 and lost 2, striking out 56 men in 38 innings. Mr. Carey says, "We expect a good team next year with all boys returning with the exception of Jim Martin."

The team was guided this year by Jim Carey, assisted by Jack Cross.

CROSS COUNTRY TEAM HOLDS A PERFECT RECORD

Bill Crosley sets a new record.

For the second consecutive year, coach Dan Dimich moulded a powerful Cross Country contender. Under his watchful eye the Irish were undefeated in their nine season starts. Their two-year record was seventeen victories and one defeat.

The main point-getters for the Irish were Wendell Green, Bill Crosley, Asa Edwards, Paul Edwards, and Dan Walters. In a meet with St. Mary's and Middletown, Bill Crosley set a new course record of 10 minutes, 38 seconds.

In the White River Conference Meet, the Irish, defending champs, came in second to a powerful Madison Heights team. At the sectional they trailed Muncie Central, Anderson, and Madison Heights.

JUNIOR HIGH ACQUIRES EARLY EXPERIENCE

The Irish junior high girls strain good school spirit when cheering for their team. Left to right: Linda Lee, Karen Rummel, Sis Higginbotham, Joy Roehler, Linda Pettigrew, Anna Stephenson, and Sharon Higginbotham lead an enthusiastic crowd in cheering their teams to victory.

Contrary to the belief of many, the junior high basketball teams are an important part of the P.H.S. sports network. Eventually most of these boys will carry on to the varsity the ability and sportsmanship they are now developing. This season the eighth grade team won 10 and lost 9, averaging 32.8 points per game. The seventh grade team finished with a 4-3 record.

High scholastic standards and a willingness to apply one's knowledge are needed for membership in National Honor Society. Character, leadership, and service are important in the selection, which is based on faculty recommendation.

PENDLETON SCHOLARS EXCEL IN LEADERSHIP

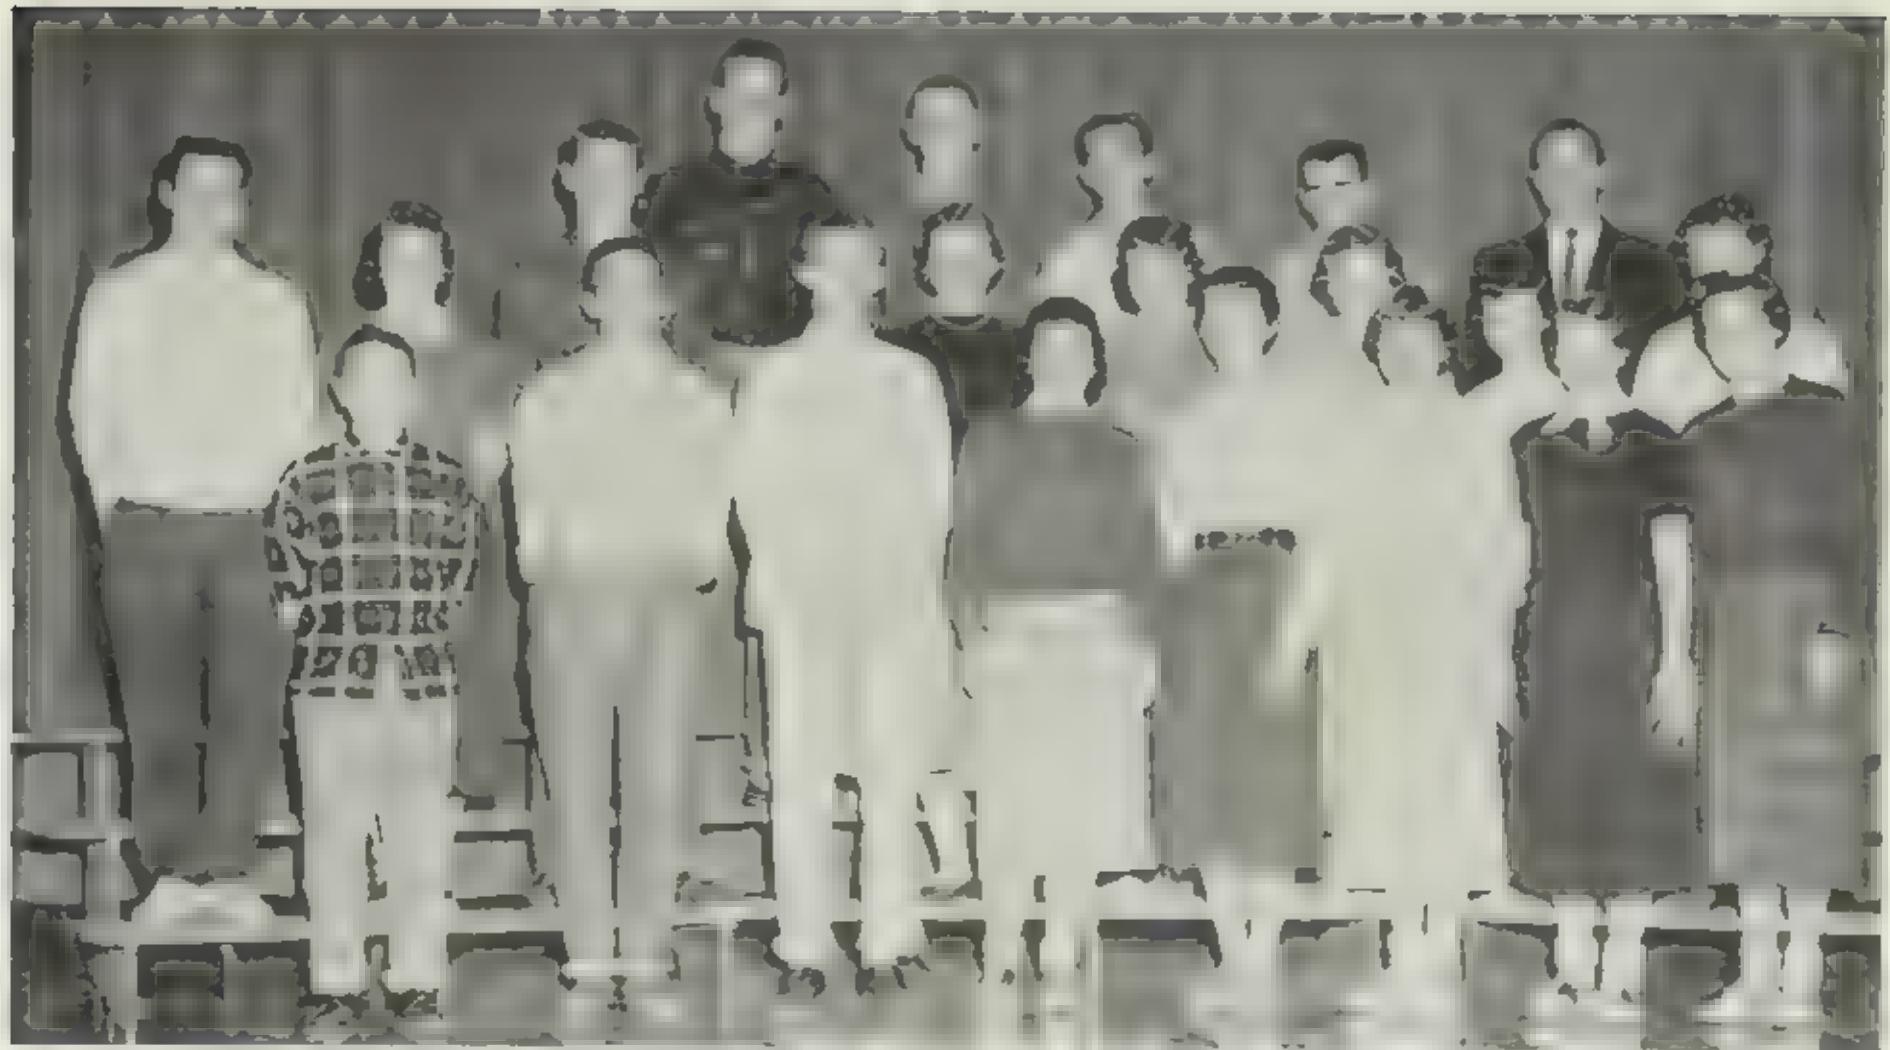

Although Pendleton has had outstanding seniors honored by membership in the Quill and Scroll for several years, last spring they became official members of the international organization and received their charter.

This society encourages individual work and high standards in high school journalism. Juniors and seniors who are in the upper third of their class and who have shown superior achievements in journalism are eligible for membership.

Quill and Scroll, official magazine, keeps the members informed of developments in the field.

THE LOVE OF THE IRISH—SELF GOVERNMENT

During their monthly meeting in the library, the Student Council plans convocations and school activities, with Mr. Hammerling's aid. A boy and a girl from each class, and the presidents of all classes and organizations make up this representative body, which has been a part of Pendleton High since 1923. Their traditional duty is the decoration of the school's Christmas trees.

SUNBEAM SOCIETY EAGER TO SERVE

The Sunbeam Society, a junior unit of the Sunshine Society, offers girls in Junior High the chance to work for the betterment of their school and community. The Sunbeams take part in many activities throughout the year such as the Easter program for the sixth grade girls, the Christmas party, and the style show. They keep the school grounds free of rubbish and inspect lockers.

The Girls' Athletic Association offers the girls of Pendleton High School a chance to take part in supervised activity and enables them to learn the meaning of good sportsmanship and leadership. G.A.A. has been a part of Pendleton High School since 1936, but it wasn't until 1952 that the local club became affiliated with the state organization. Since that time, it has been reorganized and the program extended to include not only the usual sports but also outside activities such as camps, play-days, and clinics.

SNAPPY ROUTINES MAKE PENDLETON

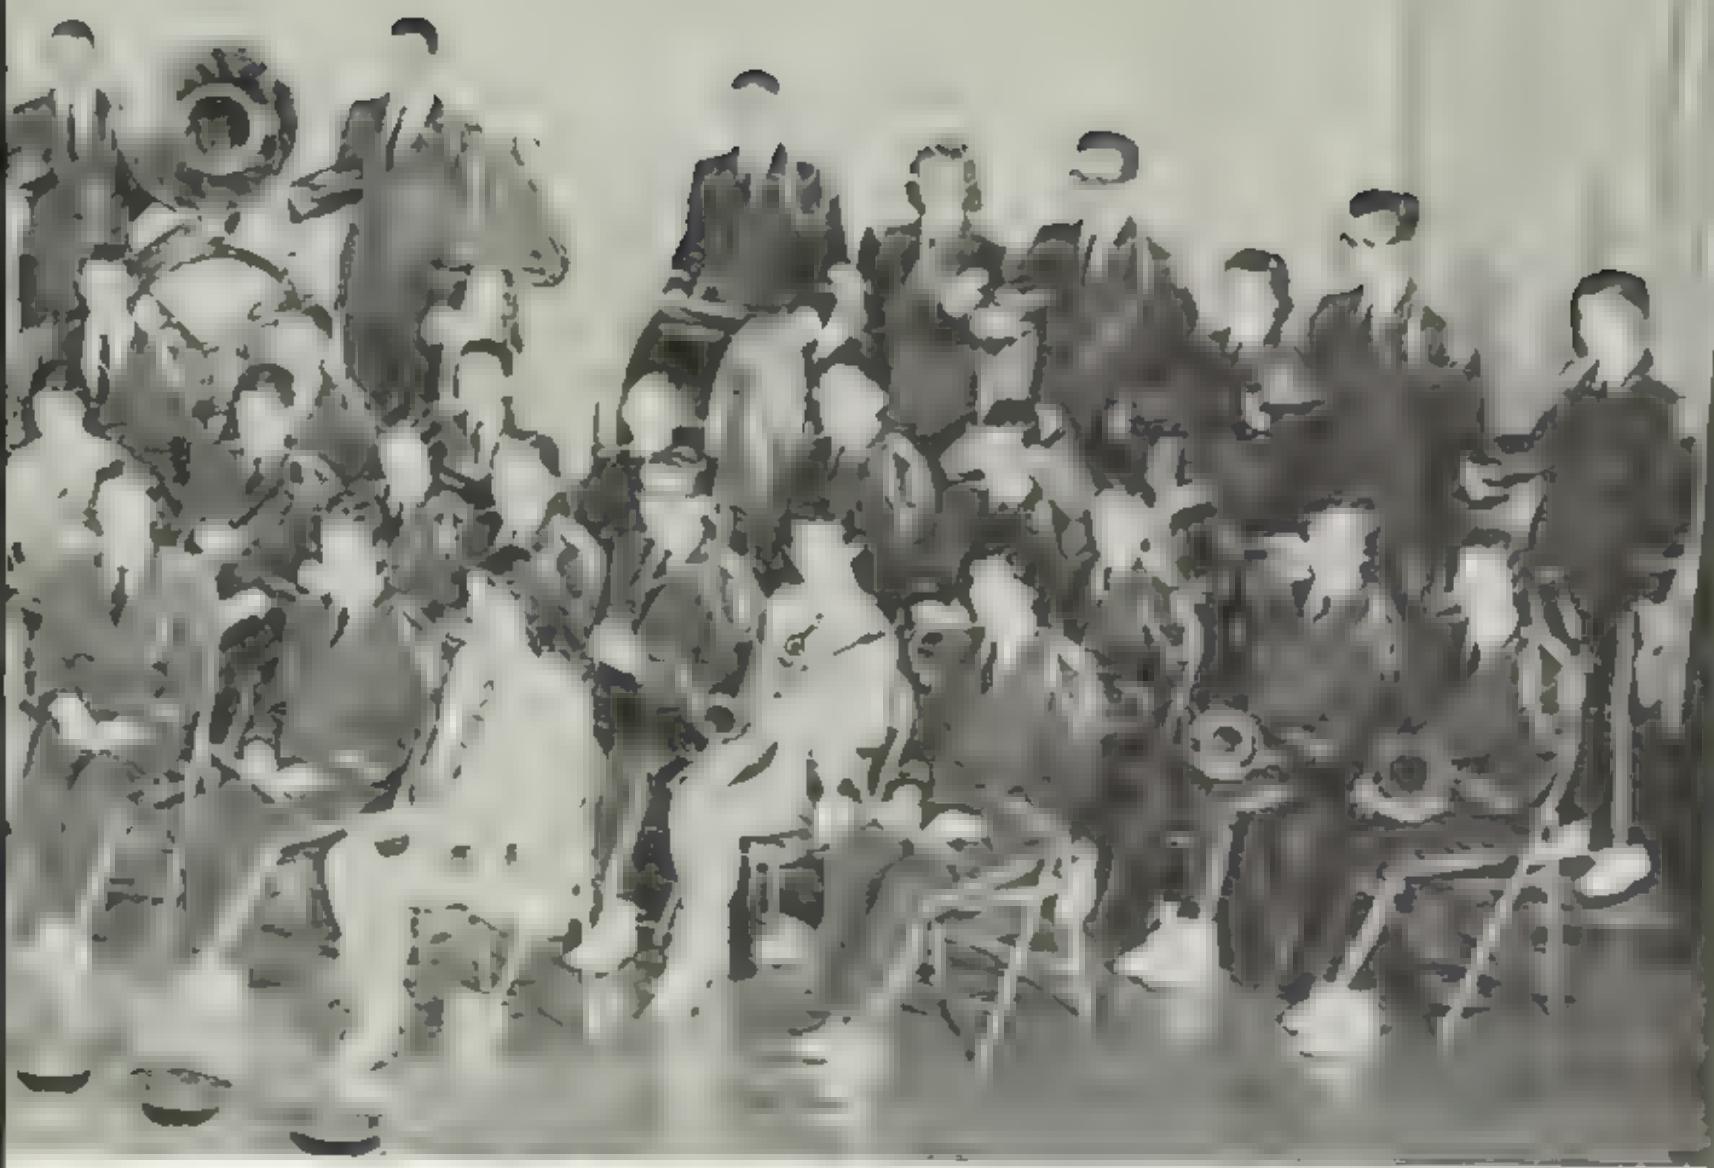

Mr. Patchett, director; Dale Doty, vice president; Jo Ann Shirley, librarian; Joyce Brandenburg, treasurer; Roger Neals, band manager; Tom Rogers, president

Pendleton High School band, under direction of Mr. James Patchett, has won recognition as being one of the finest bands in the state. Much hard work is necessary in planning routines to entertain basketball fans at home games and in participating in Band Day at Purdue. The band placed third in the Farmers' Day Parade at the Indiana State Fair, and was asked to march in the first Indianapolis "500" Festival Parade.

The Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Pentz, takes part in many activities during the year, including the Choral Festival and the State Choral Contest. The music of the Chorus adds much to the effectiveness of the Thanksgiving and Christmas programs.

For 23 years, Pendleton's school paper was called the Papyrus, but in 1939 the name was changed to the Pen. Since that time, it has become strictly a senior publication. Mr. Murphy, the sponsor, helps the girls in the advanced typing class edit four editions during the school year.

. . . PAPYRUS AND PEN

September 7, 1957, Mrs. Weaver stood behind her desk and surveyed the 15 seniors who sat in various comfortable positions in Room 220. Their job was the preparation of the 1958 yearbook for publication. The first item on the agenda was the high school press convention at Franklin College. Then followed many months of hard work and long hours. March 4, 1958, found Room 220 in a bad state of disarray, with the same group of people, now older and wiser, as the last page of 83,619 went to press. There were regrets of course—so many things they had wanted to do!—but they were also very proud of the 1958 Papyrus.

4-H GIRLS WIN AWARDS

The Home Economics 4-H Club is an organization of girls between the ages of 10 and 20 who want to know more about various phases of homemaking, such as maintaining personal appearance, preparing and serving family meals, decorating the home, and clothing a family. In order to study new developments, Janet Mercer attended Junior Leader Conference. Later, Wanda Hallowell attended the School of Home Economics held at the Indiana State Fair and received as an award a trip to the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago, last December 7.

TO MAKE THE BEST BETTER

"To Make the Best Better" is not only the motto, but the goal of all 4-H members. Each of the 57 members of the 4-H Club of Pendleton last year had three projects, and all members exhibited these projects at the Madison County Fair. Many of the local group had exhibits at the Muncie Fair and the Indiana State Fair.

GOAL . . . FUTURE FARMERS

Future farmers set a shining example

The members of the Future Farmers of America are boys who are enrolled in Vocational Agriculture who want experience that will be useful when they have their own farms. Each year the boys go on several judging trips and take an informative trip during Easter vacation. The members held a scrap drive and sold magazine subscriptions as money-making projects this year.

STUDENTS AID FACULTY IN ROUTINE WORK

The student secretaries assist in the various offices at Pendleton High School. Beginning this year, the secretaries will receive 1/4 credit each semester for office work.

When Mrs. Cooper came to Pendleton High last fall, she found several girls who wanted to work with her in the library. These girls check books in and out, slip and stack them, prepare bulletin boards, and learn basic library science. Marian Villars and Mariellen Owens were Pendleton's voting delegates at the Hoosier Student Librarians' convention at Indiana University last October.

Faculty

Mr. Lewis Jacob, superintendent of Pendleton Schools, has the school's administrative and educational functions in the community.

There were big changes in Pendleton High this year. When the new wing on the south elementary building was completed last fall, Superintendent Jacob moved into his spacious new quarters and Principal Hammerling took over Mr. Jacob's old office. Mr. Hammerling's and Miss Borden's offices, which had been overcrowded for many years, were found to be just the right size for lounges for the faculty; and the guidance office was moved out of the science supply room into the old lounge. Everyone was very confused for a while but also very proud of the new look.

When a student returns to school after an illness, he first reports to Miss Clara Borden, assistant principal, who distributes all absence slips.

SCHOOL BOARD THINKS BIG

"Given: 18 acres. Distribute a future enrollment of 1574 pupils and 52 teachers. Solve."

The first and third Tuesdays of every month find the school board members in Mr. Jacob's office, striving to solve this problem. Shortly after the new wing of the south elementary building was completed last fall, they announced their plans for a vocational agriculture and industrial arts shop and another eight-room wing for the grade school building to be completed by 1959.

The Athletic Board is established for the formulation and adoption of general athletic policies as they apply to the school's educational program. The Board adheres to the Constitution, Rules, and By-Laws of the Indiana High School Athletic Association.

Mrs. Reighard listens patiently to the latest alibi

Mrs. Gladys Cooper, librarian and Latin teacher, finds time to do a lot of reading and help the freshmen in their activities. She is completing her master's degree at Indiana State.

Interest in reading, traveling, and playing bridge add spice to Mrs. Weaver's English and journalism classes. She went to Indiana University for her A.B. and M.S. degree. She helps sponsor the Sunshine Society, the senior class, and is advisor of the Papyrus.

Students wandering through the auditorium during the noon hour may see Mrs. Pentz playing the piano for a group of admiring students. She teaches vocal music and English, sponsors the freshman class and senior play, and works with the Sunshine Society.

FACULTY . . .

Mr. Hinshaw, sophomore co-sponsor, teaches social studies and biology. His hobby is hunting—what he hunts he didn't say

Mr. Robertson, mathematics and English teacher is co-sponsor of the seventh grade and Hi-Y, and is audio-visual director. Reading and short-wave radio operating are his pastimes.

Hunting and fishing are Mr. Kirsch's favorite pastimes. He teaches biology, general science, and physics.

Mr. Hinshaw, Mr. Robertson, and Mr. Kirsch solve deep scientific problems.

The lady with the pleasant smile whom you have seen often near antique shops is Mrs. Eley. She teaches math in the junior high and sponsors the eighth grade and Sunshine Society.

Mrs. Finlay, junior high English and history teacher, helps with the Sunbeams. She enjoys sewing and crocheting.

Miss Burton, home economics teacher and adult 4-H leader, is active in the Sunbeam Society. She likes craftwork of all kinds.

The camera found Mrs. Eley and Mrs. Finlay consulting with Miss Burton

Mr. Cross teaches driver training and industrial arts, coaches the freshman basketball team, and sponsors the sophomore class. He enjoys sports.

Coaching junior high basketball and senior baseball and co-sponsoring the freshman class are Mr. Carey's main interests. He teaches junior high physical education and health and safety. When he's not playing basketball or baseball, he may be found doing, "Just about anything so long as it is sports."

Mr. Cross, Mr. Carey, and Mr. Murphy burn midnight oil over report cards.

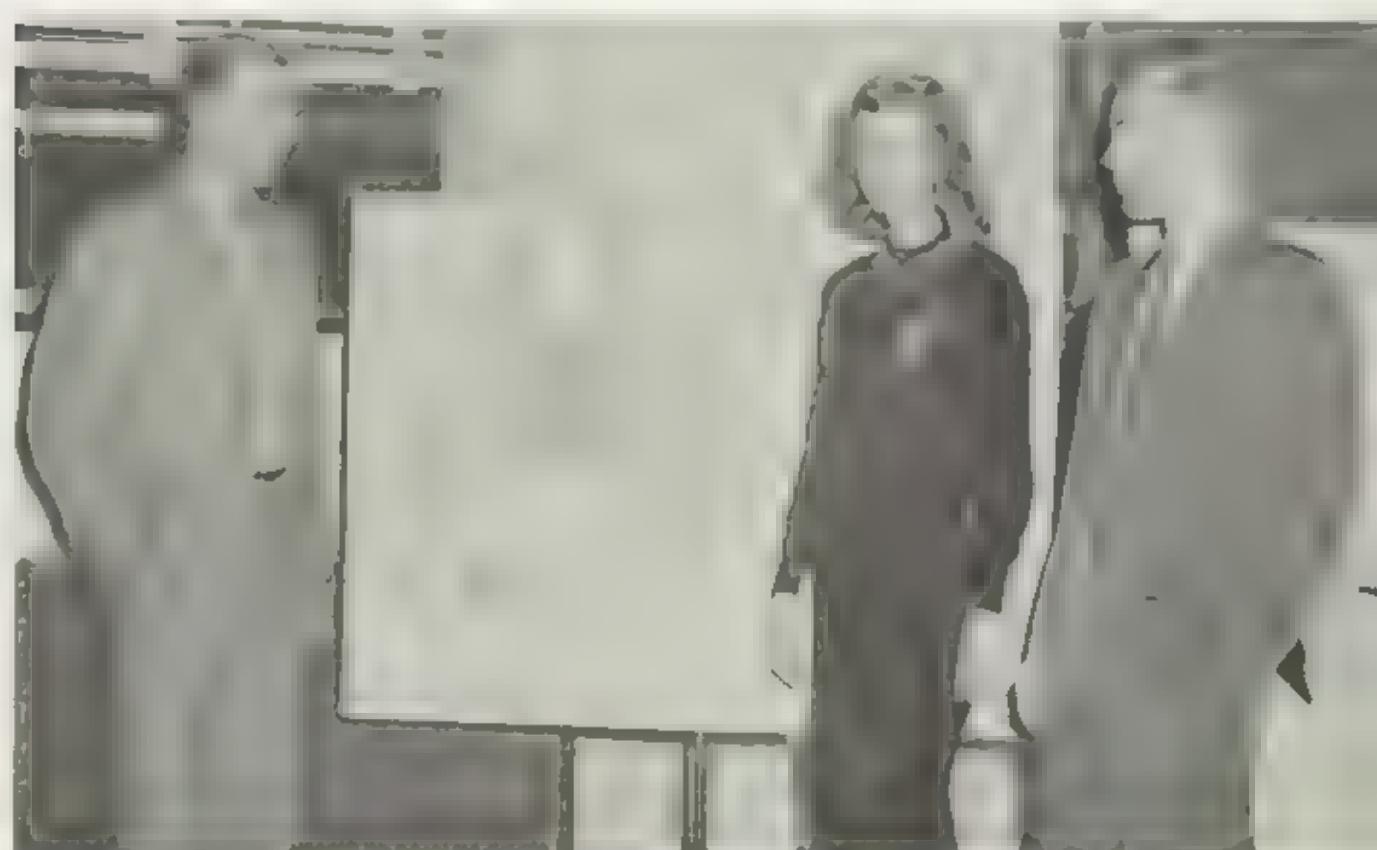

...INTERESTS ENLIVEN CLASSES...

Television found one of its biggest fans in Mr. Murphy, commerce and industrial arts teacher. He sponsors Hi-Y and the sophomore class, and roots for the Ball State team.

Sketching, horseback riding, and ice skating are Miss Buerger's hobbies. She teaches art in high and grade schools.

Mr. Parr teaches social studies and works hard sponsoring the seniors. He enjoys traveling and sports.

Mr. Brandon teaches history and geography in junior high, and helps sponsor the seventh grade. He can be found on the nearest basketball court during his spare time.

Miss Buerger tells Mr. Parr and Mr. Brandon about her trip to Europe

Mrs. Dimich teaches English and commerce and helps sponsor the juniors. In her leisure time she swims and reads.

Coaching on the bench at the "B" team games, Mr. Robinson is familiar to everyone. He likes sports of all kinds.

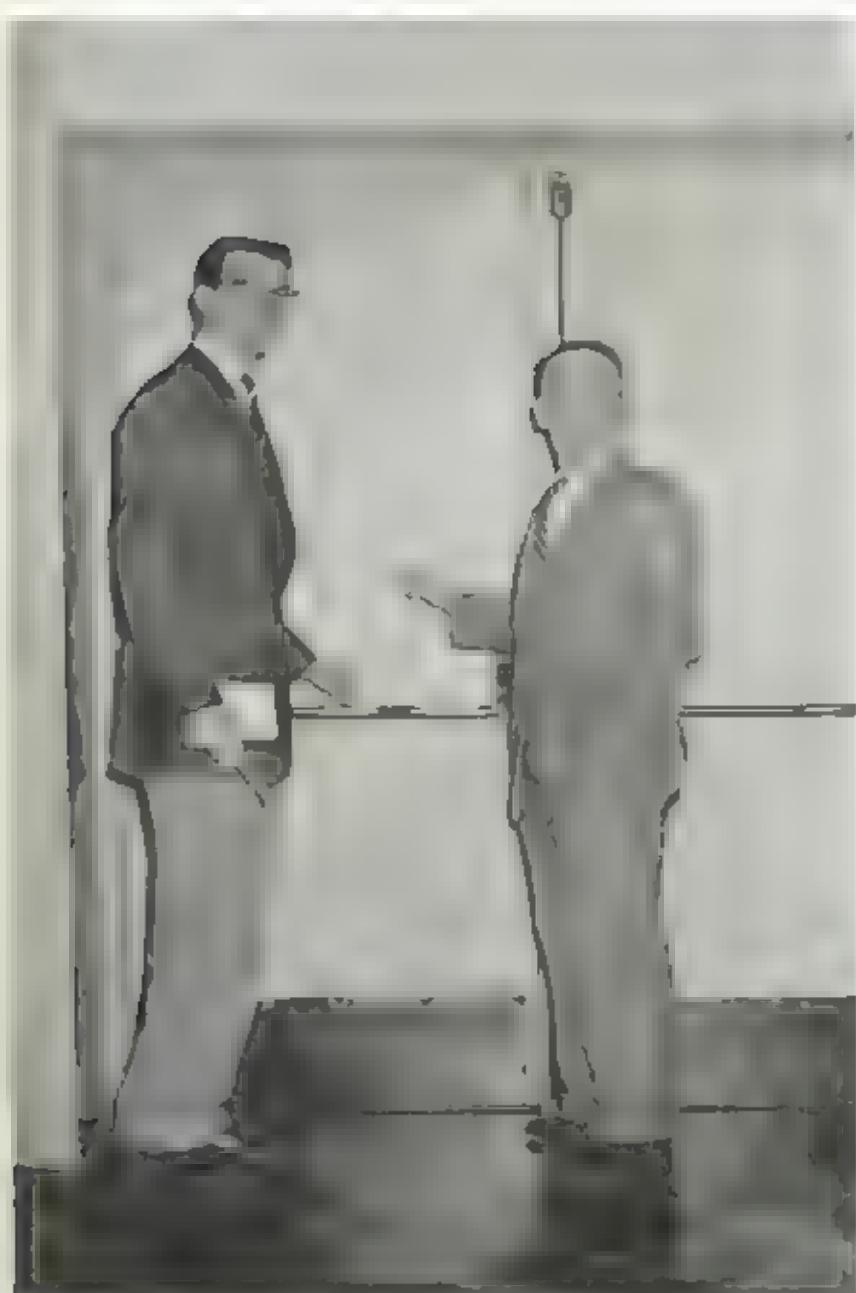

Mr. Wolf, the outstanding agriculture teacher of Madison County in 1957, has started many a young farmer on the road through federal price supports. He sponsors the seventh grade, F.F.A. and 4-H Clubs, and hopes to travel someday.

Although Mr. Patchett's first love is music, photography and his 35mm. color camera are the subjects that bring the glint to his eye. He is the director of the High School Band and junior high vocal music.

Mrs. Dimich, Mr. Robinson, Mr. Wolf, and Mr. Patchett discuss semester grades.

... AND CLUB MEETINGS

Mr. Dimich and Mr. Fletcher rush to their next class.

Coach Dan Dimich has inspired more boys to take typing than any other commerce teacher. He is the freshman co-sponsor and cross country and basketball coach. His favorite activities are sports, sports, sports.

The juniors and cheerblock members can tell you that Mr. Fletcher's grin can melt hard-hearted coke salesmen very quickly. He is a social studies teacher and guidance counselor. His big enthusiasm is basketball.

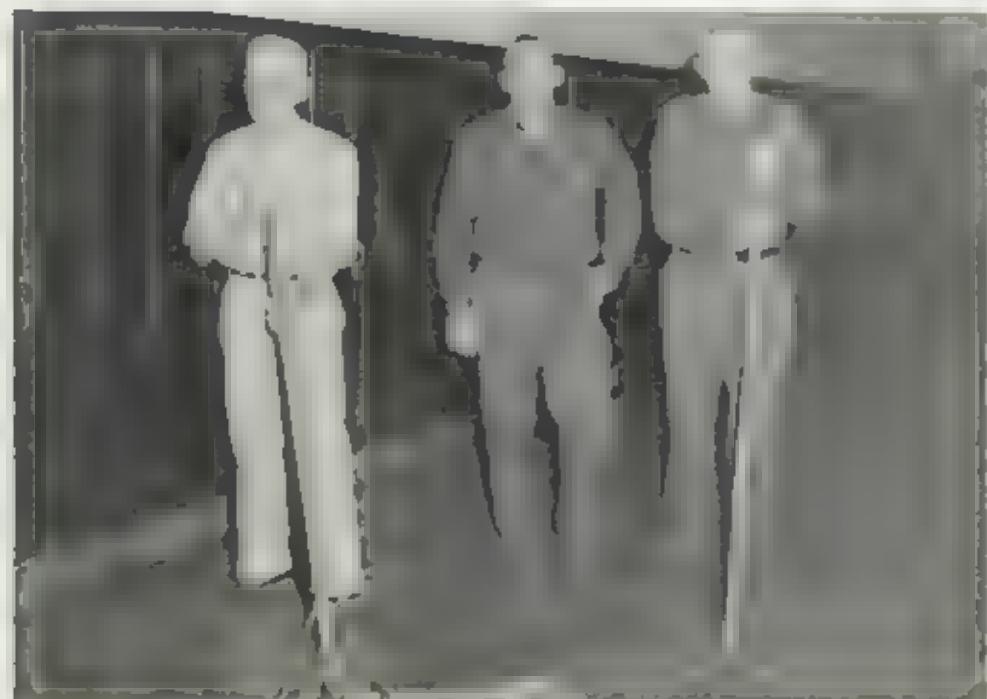

Mrs. Helton teaches physical education and sponsors G.A.A. She enjoys traveling and going on picnics.

SERVICE IS THEIR CODE

Just as your favorite radio or television program would not be possible without the help of those behind the scenes, so school would not operate so efficiently without those we seldom see. These are the courteous bus drivers who bring the students to school every morning, the janitors who keep the building clean and pleasant, and the cafeteria personnel who come to school even before the students do to prepare well-balanced lunches.

MOTTO

Well done is better than well said.

The class of 1958 majored in senior activities even before school convened last September. The girls threw a drive-in party for the boys August 31; and then in rapid succession came the first annual staff meeting, the class play, "Lights Out," the Papyrus convo, the first issue of the Pen, the senior pep session before the invitational tourney, college and work applications, commencement invitations, research papers, the junior-senior Prom, the baccalaureate service, the class trip to Chicago, and then the big night—commencement. None were too happy when the first strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" sounded and they proceeded to the platform. As the seniors looked over the last twelve years and wondered about their future, they all realized what a good year 1957-1958 had been.

This is one year the juniors will long remember. Upon returning to school following summer vacation, they plunged into a house-to-house campaign selling Pendleton Times subscriptions. Soon after, they were selling concessions at the ball games. Although no junior will deny that all this was fun, it was hard work, too. Of course, there were parties, the junior rings, their class play, and best of all—the Prom. Yes, the junior year was a lot of work, but it was not in vain.

SOPHOMORES ARE ACTIVE

The sophomores made a big hit last fall when they showed up sporting new gray class sweaters. They were so proud of them that they sponsored a dance, The Sweater Swirl, which was the highlight of their year. Look for the sophomores at the basketball games. They are playing on the teams, yelling in the Cheer Block, and leading yells in the cheerleading section. You will hear a lot more from the sophomores in the next two years.

We arrived early

FRESHMEN SPEAK

"Well, we finally made it! Our one dream, our one ambition has been to be a part of high school. Little did we realize what that would mean. Our duties are to arrive on time at classes, to smile when given a pink slip, to accept criticism cheerfully from any sophomore, buy as much popcorn as we can eat from any junior, and to bow down to all seniors.

"Now, we can begin to look forward to class sweaters, class rings, selling at ball games, proms, and most of all — revenge."

WHERE TO NOW, GRADUATE?

Today a high school diploma is as important as ever—but it is ONLY the beginning for young people who wish to make a better way of life for themselves and their future families.

That's why Delco-Remy Division of General Motors in Anderson, Indiana, urges every high school graduate to continue his or her education. There are two ways to do it: Either earn a college degree or take some type of specialized training.

To help high school graduates who sincerely want to meet the ever-growing competition for better jobs, Delco-Remy offers five avenues of approach for a brighter tomorrow.

College Scholarship Program

Delco-Remy through General Motors every fall helps provide scholarships, each ranging from $200 to $2,000 per school year, to young men and women high school graduates entering colleges of their choice.

College Co-operative Programs

Delco-Remy every fall offers a number of male high school graduates the opportunity to earn college engineering degrees from either General Motors Institute of Flint, Michigan, or Purdue University. The students alternate their time between jobs at Delco-Remy and the college classroom.

Engineering Design and Apprenticeship Programs

Delco-Remy regularly employs male high school graduates who are assigned to either an engineering design program or to a skilled trades apprenticeship program. Eventually they become draftsmen, toolmakers, electricians, machine repairmen, tinsmiths and patternmakers.

College Graduate Training Program

Delco-Remy continually hires college graduates, with a variety of different degrees, who spend six months learning various phases of the business. At the end of the program they are given an assignment which embarks them on their career in industry.

Specialized Office Job Program

Delco-Remy is ever alert for high school graduates who, on their own, furthered their education through business colleges or specialized training schools that equip them for better office jobs.
